03 — TRAVEL

✈️ Getting to Haikou

Hainan is an island province at the southern end of China. Haikou, its capital, is reached by air, by rail across the Qiongzhou Strait, and by ferry.

🏝️ Three ways onto the island

01 By air

Haikou Meilan International Airport (HAK) is the island's northern gateway and one of Hainan's designated visa-free ports of entry. It serves regional and international destinations, as well as domestic cities across China. Teams can also connect through Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, Shenzhen or Hong Kong. Sanya Phoenix International Airport (SYX), at the southern end of the island, is Hainan's other international airport; Haikou is about an hour and a half from Sanya by high-speed train.

02 By rail

Hainan's high-speed ring railway runs around the island, with stops at Haikou East Railway Station and Haikou Railway Station. Trains from the mainland reach Haikou via the Guangdong–Hainan railway, crossing the Qiongzhou Strait by train ferry.

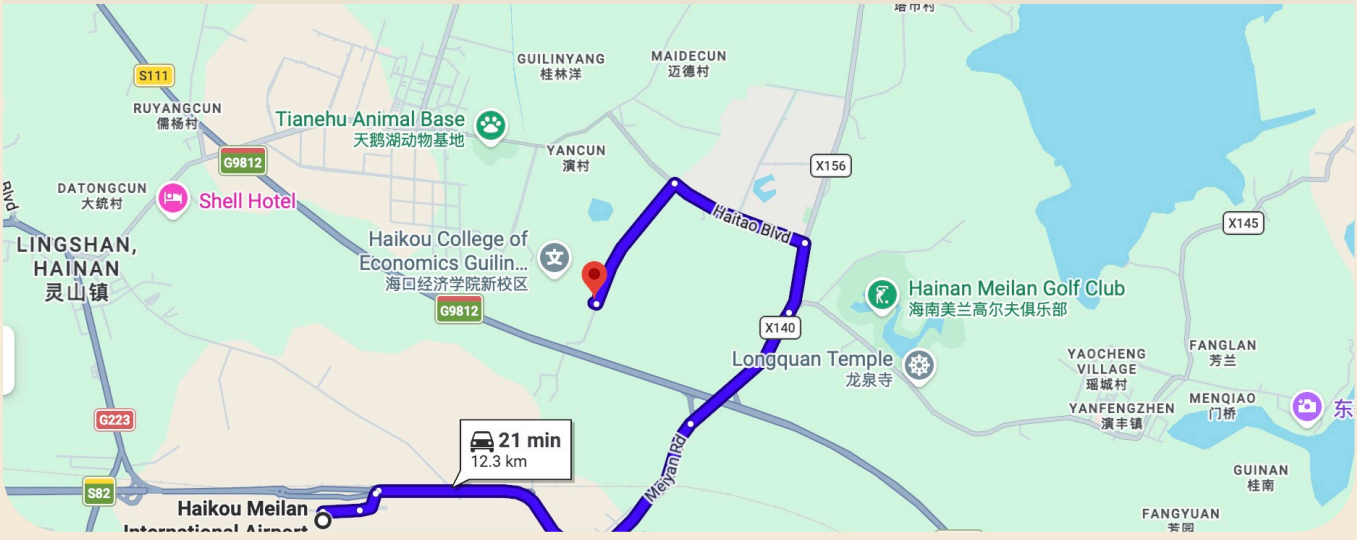

03 By sea

Car and passenger ferries cross the Qiongzhou Strait between Hai'an, in Xuwen County on the Guangdong side, and Haikou's Xiuying and New Port terminals. Ferries operate throughout the day, and the crossing takes roughly two hours.

FROM THE AIRPORT TO THE VENUE

The campus is 12 km from Haikou Meilan International Airport — about twenty minutes by taxi in normal traffic — and approximately the same distance from Haikou East Railway Station. Taxis are available at both locations, and ride-hailing services are readily available.

Teams requiring airport or station transfers should contact the Organising Committee in advance, providing their flight or train number and arrival time so that transportation and a meeting point can be arranged.

Visa-free entry to Hainan

Passports holder from 88 countries may enter Hainan Province visa-free for stays of up to 30 days. Permitted purposes include participation in sports competitions.

PORTS OF ENTRY

Haikou Meilan International Airport, Sanya Phoenix International Airport and other designated ports of entry in Hainan.

THE 30-DAY PERIOD

The 30-day period begins at 00:00 on the day following entry. Departure must take place before the visa-free period expires.

WHERE IT APPLIES

Hainan Province only. A Chinese visa is required for travel to other parts of mainland China.

WHAT TO BRING

A passport valid for at least three months beyond the date of entry, a return or onward ticket, hotel booking confirmation and an itinerary. Personal details are normally submitted through the hotel or a Hainan travel agency at least 48 hours before arrival. The Organising Committee can assist teams with this process upon request.

LETTERS OF INVITATION

Upon request, the Organising Committee will issue letters of invitation to overseas teams requiring a Chinese visa. Teams should submit their requests as early as possible to allow sufficient time for visa processing. Teams from countries not included in the visa-free list should request a letter of invitation and apply for a Chinese visa through the usual procedure.
